

BeakerSM

The Online Community for the Life Sciences Industry.

Front-end recruitment sourcing for life sciences employers. Specific to the industry, a solution for your recruitment challenges.

As a complement to your own internal staffing team or in response to your most challenging open positions, Beaker provides its clients with access to our front-end recruitment sourcing service on a per-hire basis. By tapping into the most popular and reliable recruitment sources and setting a fixed schedule for results, our veteran recruitment team provides a recruiting solution far more efficient, cost-effective and valuable than traditional generalist sources.

How Does It Work

The BeakerSource Recruiting Team is led by veteran recruiters, some of the best in the industry with years of experience, relationships and results. Following a required Client Intake session, we actively identify the candidates that meet your selection criteria.

Our sources include all channels of the life sciences industry and the online community, from the traditional platforms to the most popular Web 2.0 communities.

Utilizing a structured search methodology, we are able to efficiently identify the viable candidates across the talent market, pre-screen their background, and qualify their interest in exploring your company as a next step in their career.

The result is a roster of qualified and motivated candidates for your open positions delivered in a fixed time frame to introduce into your evaluation process.

Focused. Efficient.
Professional.
