

Targeted candidate development. Specific to the industry, a scalable & cost effective solution.

As a complement to your own internal staffing team, BeakerSource™ delivers project-based candidate development exclusively within the life sciences. Using a proven search methodology, our team will scour the market to research, source, qualify and motivate the strongest candidates across the industry.

How Does It Work?

- The BeakerSource™ recruiting team is led by veteran recruiters - some of the best in the industry - with years of experience, relationships and results.
- A thorough Search Planning process is used to define our project strategy, identifying Key Selection Factors & Search Targets.
- Our sources include all the recruiting channels of the life sciences industry, from traditional platforms to the most popular Web 2.0 communities.
- Within a fixed timeframe of less than 30 days, we identify & evaluate candidates matching your criteria and qualify their interest in your organization.
- The result is a finalist slate of qualified, motivated candidates presented for your evaluation.

Focused. Efficient.
Professional.

The BeakerSource™ Difference

- A unique and scalable solution, specific to the life sciences industry
- Pricing far below the competing cost structure of traditional recruitment agencies
- Access to a veteran life sciences recruitment team
- Passive candidates from the newest & most popular recruiting channels
- An efficient recruitment cycle with a fixed completion timeframe
- No placement or percentage-based fees
- A structured search methodology that delivers results, not just resumes
- The alternative to costly online subscriptions & job board postings